

Ecoblue® - floor mats – and nature is at your feet

RS Office Products

Protecting the environment is and will always be an important part of our modern times. This is why it matters particularly to use natural resources carefully and economically. It protects nature and precious resources at the same time. After all, it is no longer enough to just manufacture a product one time. The materials of the future should rather ensure they can be produced in an environmentally friendly manner, be recyclable and safely disposable at the end of their lifecycle.

A material which meets all these ecological and economic requirements is polyethylene terephthalate (PET). This environmentally friendly floor protection mat is 100% recyclable. Thanks to its outstanding properties, PET is a synthetic material that has been known and used for a long time, e.g. for packaging, containers, plastic films, fibres and mainly for soft-drink bottles, to name just a few.

In addition, it combines the advantages of lightweight and also to be durable. One more reason to create a floor protection mat - The result is Ecoblue from RS Office Products.

Get a bit of nature back.

Whether at the office, at your desk at home or at other workplaces: the Ecoblue® floor protection mat is the ideal mat to be used under swivel chairs. Thanks to its sophisticated manufacturing process, the mat protects your flooring effectively from scratches, unsightly signs of wear from foot traffic and the typical signs of daily wear. Expensive and complex repair of your flooring is thus a thing of the past.

Also, the mat ensures that castor wheels can move freely and easily and swivel chairs can glide optimally over all types of flooring in the future. Unlike conventional PVC or vinyl mats, Ecoblue® protection mats are absolutely odourless and completely free from any harmful or toxic substances. The floor protection mat is thus also perfectly suitable for children and people with allergies.

The clear floor protection mat made of environmentally friendly PET can even be recycled several times after use. This protects the environment and saves energy - another benefit of the Ecoblue® floor protection mat made by RS Office Products.
